

Friends,

As someone who supports and cares about the workers in the entertainment industry, you know how deeply a generous gesture can impact the lives of our film and television family. Your legacy means more than money; it's a helping hand and a way to sustain the creativity that forms the foundation of what you hold dear.

Now you can make sure your generosity lives on for generations to come in MPTF's next century of service: our Second Act, ensuring the increasingly rapid and challenging shifts in this industry can be met head on.

In just the past five years, our community has been buffeted by the pandemic, work stoppages, job contractions, productions leaving California, and the devastating wildfires. You can set an example for how we weather these storms together.
